

Project Fact Sheet

Swansea Bay FLAG Small Grant Scheme Swansea Bay Voluntary Marine Wildlife Code of Conduct

Project Summary

The purpose of the project was to prepare and promote a marine wildlife awareness leaflet in the form of a Voluntary Marine Wildlife Code of Conduct for the wider Swansea Bay area.

Swansea Bay has a long and varied coastline and a wealth of marine wildlife including harbour porpoise, common dolphin, basking shark, grey seal, leatherback turtle and sea birds. Land and sea-based marine mammal surveys have identified increasing boat traffic around the Swansea Bay and Gower coasts. In addition, harbour porpoise bearing propeller scars have been witnessed, together with many boats approaching dolphins, porpoise and grey seals too closely.

All activities which take place on or at sea have the potential to disturb marine wildlife. The Swansea Bay Marine Wildlife Voluntary Code of Conduct is designed for all sea users including the fishing community, sailing clubs, divers, sub aqua clubs and those who watch marine wildlife at Sea, to ensure that disturbance to marine wildlife is kept to a minimum.

Delivery of the project involved the preparation, design, printing and distribution of a code of conduct leaflet.
